COAST SHIPPING

San Francisco, Dec. 7.—The French bark Vincennes, eighteen days from Honolulu, was off the Heads last evening.

The cable steamer Silvertown began taking in coal yesterday in the stream off Poisoa street, preparatory to her trip to Honolulu.

The Navy hospital transport Solace came down from Mare Island yesterday, ready to sail for Honolulu, Guam and Manila with supplies and the graduating class of the Annapolis Academy.

The bark Albert, seventeen days from Honolulu, with 3700 bags of sugar, has reached port.

Vallejo, Dec. 8.—The New York will probably not come to Mare Island this cruise. The naval officials have decided that it would be unwise to move the ship from her present moorings for the purpose of coaling. This can be done without proceeding to the navy yard by the aid of coal lighters.

Vallejo, Dec. 8.—The United States ship Wyoming was placed in commission this morning. The officers thus far assigned are Captain V. L. Cottman commander, Lieutenant Commander T. D. Griffin executive officer, and Paymaster F. De Mel.

San Francisco, Dec. 10.—The Hancock, formerly the pride of the transport fleet, will sail about the 14th inst. for Philadelphia, to become a training ship at League Island Navy Yard.

The freight steamer Californian is expected to reach port today from New York, via Coronel.

The bark Mohican sailed yesterday with a general cargo for Honolulu.

San Francisco, Dec. 7.—The Pacific Mail steamship Peking, after a long delay at Kobe, left that port last Wednesday for this city, and will arrive in about two weeks. While nearing Japan, several months ago, on a home-ward-bound trip, the main shaft in the Peking broke, and it was necessary for the steamer to remain at Kobe and await the arrival from Bethlehem, Pa., of a new duplicate of the broken portion of the shaft. Captain Pillsbury is at present in command of the Peking, but he will retire from the company's employ upon arrival home, to take the position of marine surveyor for the National Underwriters.

San Francisco, Dec. 8.—The cable steamer Silvertown, lying in the stream off Poisoa street, is of great interest to sightseers along the water front, and launchmen could reap a great harvest were visitors allowed on board the steamer. But they are not welcomed, and no person can get aboard without permission from the cable company or its chief representative on board the Silvertown. The officers and artisans on the vessel, profiting by previous experience, desire to avoid the great annoyance that would result from the visit of a throng of people, whose main object would be to secure possession of a souvenir of the cable that is soon to stretch from here to Honolulu. Not having a stock of souvenir bands, the officers consider that the best and easiest course to pursue is to shut out visitors.

Voice of People PREVAILS TO KEEP Cemeteries Open

In response to the Board of Health's invitation to the public for a conference on the question of closing up the cemeteries with the city, a large concourse of native Hawaiians with a few white citizens attended the weekly meeting of the Board yesterday afternoon. The assemblage filled standing room out into the corridor. Many of the natives were women, one of whom delivered what was among the most pointed speeches that were heard. It was all a remarkable object lesson showing the pious respect of the Hawaiians for their dead. Several white speakers sustained the position taken by the Hawaiians, notably the venerable Dr. Hiram Bingham, the whole burden of the popular expressions being that the Board should not act hastily, but should await legislative action providing new burial places and, especially, should avoid putting the poor at the mercy of private cemetery enterprises. There was a pathos about the appeals that could be felt by any unperjured heart, and the result was that the Board took action of its own motion which went beyond what was asked. Practically, the matter was indefinitely postponed.

With the president, Dr. H. C. Sloggett, were present Attorney General E. P. Doie, Dr. W. L. Moore, Dr. C. B. Cooper, Mark P. Robinson and E. A. Mott-Smith. Dr. Pratt, the executive officer, and C. H. Tracy, city sanitary officer, were in attendance, also Chas. L. Hopkins as Hawaiian interpreter. Among the citizens attending were noticed David Dayton, the veteran trustee of Nuuanu cemetery, Rev. Dr. Bingham, Senator W. C. Achi, Representatives Jonah Kumahe and Henry Vida, J. L. Kaulukou, F. J. Testa, E. H. F. Wolter, Morris Keohokaloa, J. A. Hughes, John Barker, W. Sea and A. H. A. Vierra.

Pastor Parker protests.

Inspector Tracy's report was read and interpreted, and President Sloggett called for expressions of opinion. He made it clear that such was the object of the invitation to the public. Residents near Makiki cemetery petitioned to close it. A petition from Rev. H. H. Parker was read, protesting against the closing of Kawaiahao cemetery.

Mr. Kaulukou arose with a plea to defer action with regard to Kawaiahao cemetery. No reason had been shown for stopping burials there, nor any danger to the public health from their continuance. The Board should ask the Legislature to buy a plot somewhere for the burial of the dead. He had been informed that there was half an acre of land in Kawaiahao which had not yet been used, consequently there could not be such overcrowding as had been represented.

Dr. Sloggett said that the Board would take into consideration the petition of Rev. Mr. Parker and the remarks of friend Kaulukou.

Cemetery Not Deleterious.

Mr. Kumahe said that his adoptive father had been caretaker of Kawaiahao cemetery for many years and knew where to put his hand on any part that was overcrowded. For forty years he had attended to burials there. Mr. Tracy must have got his information from hearsay, he having not been long in the country, when he said that there was no more room in Kawaiahao cemetery. The speaker began to make comparisons between Kawaiahao and Nuuanu cemeteries, but was told by the chair that Nuuanu was not then under consideration. He went on to say that the vicinity of Kawaiahao cemetery was now but little occupied by dwellings since the brewery was established there. He had been living there himself for a quarter of a century and his grandfather before him, but had never been sick until he moved away from there. Mr. Kumahe agreed with the previous speaker that the consideration of Kawaiahao cemetery should be postponed. Mr. Parker was a kamaaina and knew more about that cemetery than most people in that meeting.

Mr. Wolter stated that he had an interest both in Kawaiahao and Nuuanu cemeteries. His advice was to wait until the Legislature provided new burial places before closing the old ones. Give all those people a chance to be heard on the question of the burial of their dead.

Oppression of Poor.

Mr. Achi remarked that it was but a matter of about two months until the Legislature would meet. The members of the Legislature would give due consideration to the matter if asked. There was a cemetery down at Ewa where they charged $100 for a lot 12x12 feet. If the other cemeteries were closed it would result in the like of that, which was an oppression of the poor. There were available lots of land on both the Palama and Waikiki sides. He had land at Kalihi of which he would donate a portion for a cemetery. To Dr. Sloggett's assurance that no hasty action was contemplated, but that the meeting was called to obtain the views of the people, Mr. Achi responded that he was one of the people and spoke as such.

Dr. Bingham's Reflections.

Dr. Bingham announced that he appeared there as an individual and rejoiced in the opportunity of taking part in the expression of opinion. The attendance there would show the Board that there was a sentiment in the community. In the year 1820 a little house was made for his father at Kawaiahao. His youngest brother was buried there in 1822 and he supposed that was the first Christian burial in Honolulu. He confessed that within the past few years, when he felt that he had but a few months, or at most years, left to him, he had often looked at that spot where his departed kindred slept. When he thought of perhaps being buried in the crater of Diamond Head or away out at Kalihi, he could appreciate the sentiment of those people. Make provision for burials elsewhere and prepare the Hawaiians gradually, so that they might not think that they were being driven out of their homes and crushed by the white man. Go about it gradually. Make a rule that no burial shall take place there of anybody who was not born in Honolulu, nor of anyone under 50 years of age not belonging to a family having a plot there.

Cemeteries Before Settlers.

Mr. Barker said he had bought a lot with the expectation that himself and his family would be buried in it. The cemeteries were there before people went to live alongside of them.

Mrs. Rose stated that she had a plot in the Catholic cemetery, where her father and her children were buried, and moreover the plot was not full. The part where her father was buried was full, but her plot was not full. Burials should not be stopped where there was room.

A. B. L. Hao stated that he was the caretaker of Puoa cemetery at Palama. Some of the graves there were nine and ten feet deep, but none were less than six feet deep. There might be one or two places where on coffin was laid upon another, but still there was a great deal of room.

Mr. Vierra said he represented the Portuguese Evangelical church, in whose plot at Makiki there had been only six burials. It had room for several hundred. There would be injustice in shutting down on burials, especially to poor people.

Regard for the Poor.

Mr. Kelekolua, the "boy orator," spoke against closing the cemetery near the Inaane Asylum. He protested against depriving thousands of natives of the privilege of being buried in the spot to which they looked forward as their last resting place. He said he had regard for the poor and not the rich in his remarks.

Mr. Kaulukou said that if all the cemeteries were to be heard from, there would be no time that evening to hear all the people who would want to speak. Therefore he would move to adjourn that meeting to such time as the Board of Health might appoint.

The People Prevail.

Dr. Moore intervened with a motion that, "out of respect for the sentiments expressed at this meeting, the report of the city sanitary officer be accepted and laid on the table."

At first the completeness of this concession to the feelings of the people did not appear to be realized. When Dr. Sloggett explained that it meant that the matter would be entirely dropped for the present, so far as the Board's initiative was concerned, there were murmurs of gladness throughout the meeting. The motion was then carried without dissent.

"Thank you," exclaimed Mr. Kaulukou, and "All right!" several voices in chorus.

CASEY IN COMMAND.

San Francisco, Dec. 10.—Thirteen booming guns from the battleship Wisconsin at 2:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon announced the departure of Rear Admiral Casey and the hauling down from the masthead of his two-starred pennant. The crew of the first-class fighting ship was lined up on deck to ceremoniously take farewell of the commander in chief, who boarded a steam launch bearing the stars and stripes and his own pennant and went over to the New York half a mile away. Admiral Casey was in full uniform and accompanied by his aide. The New York's band played a welcoming air as he stepped from the launch, and when his pennant had been run up on the halyards the cruiser fired the customary salute of thirteen guns. Then the crew was piped to quarters, and the clearing smoke from the saluting guns left the stately cruiser the flagship of the Pacific squadron.

Captain George H. Reiter, who has been in command of the battle-ship Wisconsin ever since she was placed in commission, and who was detached from the vessel upon her arrival a few days ago from Panama, took formal leave of the ship Monday, and in compliment to him the officers of the Wisconsin roved him ashore. Captain Reiter is regarded as one of the most popular officers of the Navy on this coast, and keen regret is felt alike among officers and men on the Wisconsin over his departure.
